Resilience and specialist operations team briefing note:

P3 Self Help Dressing Packs

As part of the lessons identified process following a critical or major incident it has been highlighted that there isn't always sufficient basic first aid supplies readily available for survivors to either self help or help others.

The Trust Operational Commander vehicles now have a P3 self-help bag which contains standard ambulance dressings which can be deployed on scene for casualties to either help themselves or be helped by survivors or any bystanders with basic first aid skills to start treatment until there are sufficient clinical staff available on scene.

The Trusts Hazardous Area Response Team and Specialist Operations Response Team vehicles also carry much larger self help dressing bags which will be deployed on scene.
